But we can help!

Here are some ideas to get this started:

“Maybe we could do better in our relationship. I would like to learn how to become a great listener and better connect to you.

I found a retreat called Getting the Love You Want Castle Retreat in the English countryside. They recommend we begin a “Revitalize Your Love Quest” by talking to Michelle Bohls, a couples therapist who has taught this workshop since 2012. She will help us understand where we are in their model of relationship stages and how to get to the stage we want. She will send us a brief assessment with instructions on the first step.

I believe this retreat and the support leading up to it will help guide us -- and then we can create special memories at this castle.

Would you be open to speaking with Michelle to learn what stage our relationship is in and what we can do to create the best relationship for both of us?

After we get our free assessment we can look at the rooms and decide if we want to invest our money in this retreat or find another way.”
